FIRE AT McKELVY'S STORE.

I. W. McKelvy's store narrowly escaped destruction by fire on Monday night. Soon before midnight smoke was discovered issuing from the second floor, and the alarm given. The Winona hose carriage was first on the ground and turned a stream of water through the second story window. A ladder was produced and the hose gotten up to the second floor. The Friendship hose carriage was on hand in good time and attached to a plug, but no water was turned on by them as it was not needed. The steamer also arrived in plenty of time to have done effective service in case it had been needed. Steam was up and she was ready for work. A half dozen men hauled her down, and they were entitled to praise for getting on the ground as soon as they did, instead of being taunted for not coming sooner. Any remarks calculated to excite anger at a fire ought to be studiously avoided. While friendly rivalry between the fire companies is perfectly natural, when there is a fire everything should be forgotten but the public welfare. The object is to extinguish the flames. Who gets there first or who is to have the credit of putting it out is a matter of no importance at the moment. Such questions are best determined after the danger is over.

The fire started in the ceiling of the second floor, in the paper that was tacked over the rafters. Pieces of the burning paper dropped down and set fire to the goods. How it happened is not surely known. Many people ascribe it to the electric wires that run over the ceiling of the room, while Mr. Schuyler, Superintendent of the Electric Light works, is positive that it could not have been started in that way.

Several thousand dollars worth of goods were damaged by fire, smoke or water. The latter was controlled at the plug and only so much was turned on as was necessary, otherwise the store would have been flooded.

The adjusters were on hand the next day, and the loss is covered by insurance. But for the timely discovery a large and disastrous fire would have followed, and the entire stock of goods in the store destroyed. As it was, but few goods on the first floor were injured though nearly everything on the second floor is ruined.

The firemen and citizens all worked bravely, and we are requested by Mr. McKelvy to extend his thanks to all who rendered such valuable assistance.

A HEAVY STORM.

On Monday evening at seven o'clock a thunder storm passed up the creek, and for a time it appeared as though Bloomsburg would escape. But other clouds gathered and soon after, a heavy fall of rain began, accompanied by vivid lightning and terrific peals of thunder. At the third flash the arc lights went out everywhere, and some of the incandescents. Immediately a whistle began to blow and the cry of fire was raised. The firemen started in the direction of the car shops, but soon found that the whistle was that of the Electric Light Works. On reaching there they were informed that the whistle was not intended as a fire alarm, but as a signal to the Superintendent that he was wanted there, some damage having been done to the plant by lightning. The arc lights were disabled for two days during repairs to machinery.

Some buildings were struck, but no serious damage was done.

M. G. HUGHES DEAD.

Mayberry G. Hughes of Catawissa was found dead in his bed at his residence, on Wednesday shortly before noon. He had not risen, and his right hand was under his head, and he seemed to be sleeping. An examination proved that life was extinct.

Mr. Hughes never married, and he leaves a brother, Douglas Hughes of this town, and two sisters, Mrs. Dr. Vastine of Catawissa, and Mrs. Boone of St. Clair, to survive him. In April 1876, he was appointed Associate Judge of this county and served until January, 1877. His appointment was made to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Scott.

For a number of years he has been a director of the First National Bank of Bloomsburg, and was made president of the recently organized National Bank of Catawissa. He served as President of the Columbia County Agricultural Society for several years, and was also President of the Catawissa Bridge Company. He amassed a fortune which will propably exceed $100,000. His age was sixty four years. In politics he was a republican though not an offensive partisan. The funeral will take place to-day, Friday at one o'clock.

SAVE YOUR RECEIPTS.

The unreasonableness of some men was exemplified in an instance brought to our notice on Tuesday. A subscriber called at our office and inquired for the amount of his bill. When informed, he contended that it was not right, and claimed to have receipts at home covering two years more than he was credited with. He was politely requested to let the matter rest until he could produce his receipts and if we were wrong, we would not only correct the error, but present him with a year's subscription, but this he declined to do and because we would not take his word against our books he became angry, and demanded his bill to date, and ordered the paper stopped. We cheerfully complied with both of these requests. It is no pleasure to do business with one who will not listen to reason.

All this is of no special public interest, but it is mentioned to show the necessity of preserving your receipts for subscription. Every time you call to pay for your paper bring along your last receipt, and then no misunderstandings can occur.

Numerous placards appeared upon both horse and wagon announcing the excursion. A string of large bells was used to call attention to the approach of the wagon. Mr. Creasy gave considerable of his time to advertising the excursion, and whatever success is attained may be in a large measure attributed to his efforts.

PEFFER'S BOLD SPEECH.

Cheaper Money Wanted and Must Have It.

HEAVY MORTGAGES IN THE WEST.

What He Knows of Wall Street Men and Methods—Farming Fifty Years Ago and Now—The Manner in Which Railroads Do the Business.

NEW YORK, June 23.—About three-fourths of the seats in the large hall in Cooper Union were filled last night with appreciative listeners to United States Senator Peffer from Kansas, who spoke on the third party movement. The chairman of the meeting told his hearers that one of the arguments against the third party was that they had no leader. In America, he said, no leader was needed, and at no period in a nation's history was a man needed to fill a gap that one was not found.

The Old Parties Denounced.

He then called upon the secretary, Mr. Stanton, to read a series of resolutions which denounced the old political parties and charged that the government had been run in the interest of trusts and monopolies, and that the issues of free trade and the tariff are fictitious ones and are forced upon the people for the purpose of diverting attention from the more important questions of land, money and transportation.

Senator Peffer said that thirty-two years ago a man from the western prairies warned the people of the east against a power that was seeking to control legislation. That man said then that all should be slaves or all should be free.

Peffer's Pungent Remarks.

"I am the lineal descendant," said he, "of that man, and I tell you here in the center of the moneyed power of the country, which is greater than the slave power, that Wall street moneyed interests have the people by the throat, and you of the east and we of the west must destroy that power or it will destroy us. When the men of Wall street dictate a policy to the secretary of the treasury it is adopted. When they oppose it it is defeated. Whenever the bankers of Wall street need any money they ask their partner in Washington to assist them, and he does it.

"But when the farmers ask their friends in Washington for a dollar they never get a farthing, nor do they get any assistance through legislation, and all this we intend to change. We do not propose to take away a man's property; on the contrary, we will protect every man's property. We are not anarchists. We will arm our legions with the ballot and not with the bayonet No rumbling cannon or grim visaged war will march with our armies.

Fifty Years Ago and Now.

"Fifty years ago the farmer made his own implements, spun his own clothing from fiber grown on his own farm. He did not need money, because his wants were supplied by barter, not by sale. In place of the shoemaker, who came once a season to make the shoes for the family, six storied buildings turn out shoes nowadays so cheap that the farmer sells his product for cash and buys his shoes in the stores. Nowadays it is only bonanza farming that pays. The capitalist who owns 30,000 or 40,000 acres, and hires an army of help where one reaping machine mows sixty-five acres in one day, that is the only sort of farmers who make money.

No Money in Farming.

"I came through Massachusetts and as I drove over the Berkshire hills I counted no less than seven signs offering farms for sale. The owners all said that there was no money in farming. We want cheap money. I don't mean money that is worth nothing. We want good money, any kind, but we want it at a lower rate of interest than we are now paying. If a man invests his money in a farm he has to work hard to get a small interest. If another man invests the same amount in a mortgage his money goes to work the instant the deed is signed.

Pays His Respects to Bankers.

"He can afford to sit in idleness and let the other fellow work for him. The men of Wall street who write 'Twenty-eight Years in the Street' and tell how they gave their money to save the Union, didn't tell that they bought the bonds at fifty cents on the dollar, at 12 per cent. interest, and when the victory was won and peace reigned they immediately went to work and had these bonds made equal to a gold standard.

Heavy Mortgages.

"Those same men want the secretary of the treasury to figure on the 2 per cent. bond now. Suppose he lets the farmers have a little money at 2 per cent.? Our lands are as good as their bonds. If they don't give us cheaper money we will fight. These are not threats, but warnings. In Iowa there is $199,000,000 in mortgages at $104 to the head. Of this one-third is on city lots and two-thirds on farm property. In my own state, for the past ten years, $400,000,000 has been recorded in mortgages. Of that amount $160,000,000 is for farms, the total value of the farm lands being $168,000,000.

How Railroads Work It.

"The railroads, which are managed by abler financiers than farmers, mortgage their property for four and five times their value."

Senator Peffer spoke of the importance of women in politics, and pointed to his own victory over Senator Ingalls as the result of their aid.

On Trial for Thirteen Years.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., June 23.—The trial to test the sanity of Jonathan Jones, who, in 1878, killed David Roberts in Boomer township, was begun here yesterday. For thirteen years Jones' case has been before the courts. He has been tried repeatedly, and twice the case has been taken to the supreme court and the verdict set aside. The last trial occurred four years ago and resulted in a verdict of manslaughter.

Professor Mowbray Dead.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., June 23.—Professor George M. Mowbray, widely known as the inventor of nitro-glycerine, died last night after a protracted illness, aged sixty-six years. He was an able chemist and was for several years employed in that capacity at the Zylonite works here. He leaves a widow and adopted son, H. Siddons Mowbray, the well known artist in New York city.

Angered by the Employment of Negroes.

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 20.—A riot and strike is in progress among the miners at Finleyville. So far no serious outbreak has occurred, but is expected every moment. The cause of the outbreak is that colored men are to be employed in opening a mine. The white miners objected and a general fight occurred. Sheriff Lockhart and several deputies have gone to the scene.

J. E. M'DONALD DEAD.

Another Once Prominent Democratic Statesman Gone.

A SKETCH OF HIS PUBLIC LIFE.

He Was One of the Most Notable Figures in National Politics—His Presidential Ambition Was Not Satisfied—His Platform.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—Ex-Senator McDonald died at 11:35 o'clock last night.

With Joseph Ewing McDonald there passes away one of the most notable figures in national politics. For over a half century has the greatest of old time Hoosier Democrats after Hendricks been before the people. McDonald was born in Butler county, O., Aug. 29, 1819, and his father died when he was an infant. When he was only eleven years old McDonald was apprenticed to a saddler. To this fact is due his sobriquet, "Old Saddlebags."

Took to Studying Law.

In the "thirties" McDonald determined to secure a collegiate education and become a lawyer. He was graduated in 1842 from the Asbury university, and four years later was admitted to the bar. After serving three years as attorney general he was sent to congress.

He served only one term in the house, being beaten for a return by Oliver P. Morton. He then became ambitious to go to the senate, and undertook the reorganization of the Democratic party in his state, which had been sadly demoralized during the war.

Elected Senator.

He was made chairman of the Democratic state central committee, and in 1874 the Democrats captured the legislature by a fair majority. In return for his services McDonald was elected to the United States senate and took his seat March 4, 1875. He held it for six years. During his term he made himself very popular socially.

His home at the national capital was a resort for senators and congressmen. Mrs. McDonald had been a wife before becoming the senator's bride. The senator acted as her counsel in proceedings which resulted in an absolute separation from her former husband, and the Hoosier Democrat shortly afterward married her.

Presidential Aspirations.

Few men of more intense partisanship than McDonald ever entered the senate. His platform then, as repeatedly expressed by him, was: "Jacksonian Democracy and Free Trade." Recently, however, when his party shouted the shibboleth of free silver, McDonald embraced every possible occasion to denounce the scheme to degrade the American dollar by making eighty cents worth a hundred cents. McDonald had a strong following in the 1884 and 1888 Democratic presidential conventions. Many Indianians favored his nomination for the presidency in 1884.

The national bosses of the party wouldn't listen to it, but put up Cleveland, with Hendricks for second place. Four years later he was pressed for the vice presidency, but Indiana was ignored. Since that disappointment the ex-senator has devoted himself to his profession.

The funeral of ex-Senator McDonald will take place in Indianapolis next Wednesday afternoon.

THE TREASURY STATEMENT.

An Apparent Deficit of $787,117—Captain Maclellan's Figures.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The cash balance on the treasurer's books for the day was $43,061,254, but of this sum $23,627,411 was on deposit in national banks and $20,220,960 was in fractional silver, leaving a deficit in the available cash of $787,117.

Captain Maclellan, chief of the warrant division of the treasury department, said that the actual receipts for the month and the cash balance on hand at the beginning of the month slightly overbalanced the drafts he had drawn. The cash balance June 1, according to his figures, was $10,138,000; the receipts up to Thursday were $18,222,000; the receipts Friday were $863,000, making a total of $29,223,000. The warrants drawn, including Friday, he gave at $26,411,000, making an excess of receipts and cash on hand of $2,812,000. The reason for the difference between his figures and those of the treasurer is, he said, the fact that his cover the latest warrants, while the treasurer's statement is two or three days behind.

Novel Way of Collecting a Debt.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 22.—A constable of the town of Eads, in Kiowa county, held up the Missouri Pacific express for three hours. The salary of an employe of the road had been garnished by a citizen of Eads, but the company had neglected to settle, and the matter was placed in the hands of the constable. When the express stopped at Eads the constable boarded the cab of the engine and served papers attaching the same. Nearly three hours were spent in telegraphing the superintendent of the road, who finally ordered the payment of the money demanded by the constable. A postal inspector was on the delayed train, and it is likely that suit will be brought against the constable for intercepting the mails.

CONCORD, N. H., June 22.—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers held their meeting here yesterday. This is the first time the organization has met in this state. F. Evans, of the New London division; E. L. Bemis, chief of the Fitchburg division; N. E. Green, master mechanic, and N. S. Lawrence, of New London.

Cheers for Parnell.

CHICAGO, June 22.—James J. O'Kelly, M. P.; William Redmond, M. P., and Henry Harrison, M. P., addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting of Irish-Americans at Central Music hall Saturday. Every reference to Parnell was loudly cheered. Thunderous shouts greeted a message received by Mr. O'Kelly, which read, "Parnell will visit Chicago in the autumn."

WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE

And Imagine a Vain Thing About the Newspapers?

The heathen rage against the newspaper for almost all conceivable reasons and no reasons—because they don't like to be published into notoriety, because they don't wish to have others learn certain things about themselves, because their friends have been unpleasantly noticed, because the paper has published what they did not wish it to publish, and because it has not published that which they asked it to print. Almost always because of some point which affects their own self interest or selfishness do the heathen rage; and here and there is one who rages on "general principles" and utters his fiat abolishing the whole institution, taking pains, next day, to secure extra copies containing his anathema for himself and his friends. It is safe to state that there is not a single issue of a newspaper in print which does not contain something somewhere at which some heathen rages in spirit.

But putting aside all these causes for displeasure on the part of the heathen, let me state one particular circumstance, and this is really the chief reason why the heathen rage so much and so unreasonably at the daily press. The circumstance is this: The fault finder, the carper, the would be censor of the press, very rarely asks himself these questions: "Is this right?" "Is it just?" "Is it a fair statement?" He never seems to recollect that in reputable journalism the first law, the guiding rule of an honorable editor is the simple one of sound sense and exact justice; and it is because they do not consider this point that the heathen rage so much more than is necessary, and often make asses of themselves when they might pose as wise counselors. In fine, then, the heathen rage because they cannot see that in reputable journalism justice and common sense rule the editor; not malice, spite and prejudice.

Remember this: Wrongdoers are more fearful of the press than of law, justice so called, or punishment. You can hire a lawyer; buy a jury; judges never tell tales out of court; doctors keep their own counsel, and scandal by word of mouth travels but a brief space; but the press cannot be frightened, bought, or forced into silence. Big sinners—and they are the hardest to catch—fear the exposures of the press more than they dread the pangs of the law or the pricks of conscience.

Don't growl if your paper today doesn't suit you. You are getting for a couple of cents that which cost much more than you paid for it, and the advertiser, whom you scorn, is paying for your reading matter. This is a fact.—F. W. Pangborn in National Journalist.

Plumb Believes in Local Newspapers.

Senator Plumb, of Kansas, subscribes for every paper published in that state. He also takes all the leading New York papers, several from Chicago, one from Philadelphia and other large cities. In speaking of newspapers the senator says:

I believe in the local newspapers. They are the leaders, the makers of public sentiment. They are nearer to the people than any other papers. Their editors mingle with the people, and consciously or unconsciously reflect the views of their readers.

By my private letters from all parts of the state, and by reading the local papers, I can tell just what the people of Kansas are thinking and talking about. I can feel the pulse of the people and take their temperature. I am amazed, too, at the excellence of our county papers. The majority of them are carefully and ably edited. They not only print the news of their neighborhood, but have opinions which I find it worth my while to read and reflect upon. I get no better return for any of the money which I spend than for that which I pay out for the local newspapers of my state.

Everybody Is Interested in It.

No paper can be published without home patronage, and every man is interested in keeping up a home paper. If a railroad or factory is wanted, the newspaper is expected to work for it. If a public meeting is wanted for any purpose, the newspaper is called upon for a free notice. If any of the societies have a supper or reception of any kind, the newspaper is expected to give the necessary notice. The newspaper must puff the schools and everything else to advance the interests of the business men of the place, and then give them a handsome notice when they pass away. And yet some of them do nothing to keep up a home paper.—Gladstone (Mich.) Express.

Pay the Printer Promptly.

Persons who patronize papers should pay promptly, for the pecuniary prospects of the press have a peculiar power in pushing forward public prosperity. If the printer is paid promptly, and his pocketbook kept plethoric by prompt paying patrons, he puts his pen to his paper in peace, his paragraphs are more pointed; he paints his pictures of passing events in more pleasing colors, and the perusal of his paper is a pleasure to the people. Please paste this piece of proverbial philosophy in some place where all persons can perceive it.—Exchange.

Does Your Paper Come Regularly?

Should any of our subscribers fail to get their paper regularly they will please notify us by postal card, and as far as lies in our power we will cheerfully supply all missing numbers. Occasionally papers get lost in the mails, and without investigating the matter the subscriber jumps to the conclusion that his paper was withheld by the publisher. Make your complaints direct to us and we will see that you get the paper regularly.

The Great Safeguard.

There is no safeguard like a newspaper. Nothing can do more to keep up a town and help business. The town that supports a good local paper is the town that is successful and growing, and the newspaper that keeps up with and a little in advance of the town's growth is the one that will live long and prosper.

The Columbian Express, via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The new fast train to Chicago by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which entered the service June 7th as the Chicago Special, has been rechristened "The Columbian Express" in honor of the great fair. In bestowing this title on the new train, the Pennsylvania Railroad Comyany has taken the initiative among the railroads in recognizing the merits of the World's Exposition by providing special facilities for the comfortable and speedy movement of visitors. The train is particularly worthy of bearing the honored title. It is the ripest example of train construction, as it contains accomodations for those who desire luxurious apartments as well as for those who seek tne comforts of a well-appointed passenger coach. The Pullman drawing-room sleeping and dining cars, and its cheery passenger coaches, are all vestibuled. The Columbian Express leaves New York 4.00 P. M., Philadelphia 6. 25 P. M. Harrisburg 9.30 P. M. every day, arriving at Chicago 5. 15 P. M. the next day.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 22, 1891

The terrible effects of the crime of "check kiting" by private individuals should have been sufficient to have prevented the Treasurer of the United States from engaging in the reprehensible practice, but they were not. For two days there were checks outstanding against the Treasury amounting to nearly one million dollars more than the amount of cash available to pay them therein. Thus the much-denied deficit made its debut. Some people believe that Secretary Foster, by directing these checks to be issued when he knew that there were no available funds in the Treasury to meet them, so far exceeded his authority as to lay himself to impeachment. It would be no excuse to say that he expected the money to pay them to be in the Treasury before they were presented for payment—that's the excuse of all the "check-kiters." Let the fact be remembered that republicans high and low, big and little, have persisted in saying that there would be no deficit, and that for two days there was a deficit, one day amounting to $787,108, and the next to a little less. It is not surprising that Secretary Foster was anxious to extend the $50,000,000 of 4½ per cent bonds which will mature next September. It seems to have simply been a question of default or extension, and Mr. Foster chose the lesser evil.

Another republican official is in trouble. Notwithstanding the fate of his immediate predecessor, who was dismissed for financial irregularities in spite of the attempt of Speaker Reed to protect and shield him. Postmaster Hathaway of the House of Representatives has got himself into a similar scrape. His predecessor assessed the contractor for hauling the mails to and from the office, and Mr. Hathaway has been assessing the employes of his office in order to pay salaries to his friends not carried on the official payroll.

Steve Elkins does not propose getting left if he can help it, as long as there is a chance to get even at the expense of the Government, and it may be that his company—the North American Commercial—which is the lessee of the Alaskan Seal privileges, was acting upon advice given him by his friend Mr. Blaine, when it filed notice with the Treasury department of its intention to claim $400,000 for being prevented from taking the stipulated number of seals during the season of 1890, $150,000 for its expenditures on the seal islands, and an indefinite amount for the present season. Mr. Blaine has already committed himself officially as being of the opinion that the company is entitled to damages, but it remains to be seen whether he will be willing to approve a claim of such magnitude as Elkins has had the nerve to present.

It has been stated here that Mr. Cleveland's favorite candidate for Speaker of the House is Representative McMillin, of Tennessee. It had been previously supposed that if Mr. Cleveland had a choice it was Representative Mills.

Representative W. L. Wilson, of West Virginia, who is one of the "dark horse" candidates for Speaker, has joined the editorial fraternity. He is to edit the tariff reform of the St. Louis Republic. His editing is to be done from Washington, and he is to receive a salary of $4,000 a year.

The National Democrat, which started out under such flattering auspices, has been compelled by mismanagement on the part of its editor and publiser, to suspend publication, with a bona-fide subscription list of more than 25,000.

Senator Kenna is in town. He says he has been recently devoting his time to his private business, and that he dosen't know anything of interest, politically speaking.

Mr. Harrison will come over from Cape May Point to preside over a cabinet meeting Friday, which is to decide how much interest shall be paid on the bonds that are to be extended and several other more or less important questions, but Mr. Harrison probably looks forward with more interest to the report of the true inwardness of things in Ohio, which Secretary Foster, who is now there, is expected to bring, than he does to any official business. The Harrison men are looking cross-eyed at the McKinley boom, and unless McKinley makes a bargain with Foster to stand aside in 1892, if he should be elected Governor this year, he will get no administration support.

But there is reason to believe that he will make the bargain.

THE DEFICIT $787,108.

THE UNITED STATES TREASURY IS DRAINED FOR THE FIRST TIME.

HIGH TARIFF AND PRODIGALITY HAVE WIPED OUT THE SURPLUS.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—For the first time in the history of the Government the Treasury officials to-day were unable to fill out the last line in the regular statement of the condition of that Department. That line reads: "Net balance in the treasury."

The reason for the omission was the very best possible. There was, according to the books, no balance in the Treasury. The enormous sum which the Republicans found there when they returned to power had entirely disappeared, and an actual deficit of $787,108 stood confessed by the record.

There was no way out of the difficulty. The statement was due, the figures could not be altered. The truth, therefore, must be told, bad as it was and as humiliating to the authorities responsible for it.

To day's statement is as follows:

Assets:
Net gold	$ 131,406,943
Net silver	14,347,309
United States Treasury notes (silver certificates)	7,890,379
Net United States notes	1,158,116
Trade dollar bars	4,986,137
Subsidiary coin	20,230,960
National bank notes	5,973,483
In National bank deposits	29,308,755
Aggregate	$ 208,352,372
Liabilities:
Interest to date	$2,748,163
Interest unpaid, less amount on hand	580,737
Matured debt and interest, less amount on hand	1,744,045
Interest on Pacific railroad bonds, less amount on hand	7,749
Disbursing officer's balance, &c	41,054,575
Five per cent redemption fund	5,219,553
Post-Office Department account	3,989,887
Outstanding drafts and checks	9,946,444
Reserve for redemption United States notes	100,000,000
Net liabilities	$ 165,291,108
Balance	43,061,264
Deduct subsidiary coin	20,230,960
Amount in National banks	23,627,412
Total	$ 43,842,972
Deficit	787,108

The point upon which the officials lay greatest stress is that the heavy disbursments for June are past, and that from now until the end of the month, which will also be the end of the fiscal year, the receipts from customs and other sources will make good the present deficit and afford besides a surplus of $6,000,000 or $8,000,000.

That is purely an estimate. But admitting it to be correct, it does not make very bright the prospect for July. In that month there will be, as there have been in this month, heavy drafts for pensions; in all probability heavier than during this month. The Pension Office is approving thousands of claims, and beginning to call for almost fabulous sums of money.

The Treasury receipts, on the other hand, are exceedingly small, as the result of the McKinly bill, and are likely to get smaller. The Protectionists declared in framing their bill that their object was to stop the importation of foreign goods, and the reduction of the revenues from imports shows that they are in a measure realizing their expectations.

So that, with the receipts growing every month smaller and the pension drafts every month larger, a surplus of only $6,000,000 or $8,000,000 with which to begin the new fiscal year's business on is likely to prove but a mere bagatelle. There can be no reaonable doubt that the amount is entirely too small to be taken into serious account in estimating the gravity and necessity of the existing situation.

The Secretary of the Treasury insists on characterizing the $20,000,000 of subsidiary coin in the Treasury as available assets, in the face of the fact that it is not legal tender for debts in sums above $10. A provision of the law makes such coin absolutely unavailable for the Government's purposes. It could not be used to discharge any important obligations.

The question is being asked here, how in the end will this matter be remedied? The Government cannot continue to run so closehauled to the wind. It would constantly be in danger of swamping. The receipts from customs under the McKinley bill cannot possibly be heavy, and from other sources they necessarily will be light. but all the time the big drafts drawn by the last Congress will be coming in, and in some way will have to be met. But in what way? How will the necessary money be raised? It will be a difficult problem to solve.

Again the wisdom of Mr. Blaine is revealed. When it was proposed to put sugar on the free list, Mr. Blaine advised against it. He pointed out that the appropriations were likely to be large, and that the one item of increased pensions ought to make the party leaders in Congress careful not to run the revenues down too low. His advice was to hold on to the sugar tax, and thereby make the situation safe.

Had his policy been pursued the present difficulty would not exist. The receipts from sugar alone were nearly $5,000,000 a month, and the tax on that article ceased on the 1st of April. Now, had the tax continued, the revenues from that source alone for April, May and June would have been $15,000,000, or nearly enough to have met the heavy pension drafts of this month, which have left the Treasury struggling with a deficit. But at that time Mr. Blaine was a man without honor in his own party.

It has been intimated that Senator Sherman will have a voice in determining the policy to be pursued, and Treasury officials to-day suggested that the Onio Senator might recommend the issue of a few millions dollars worth of bonds to tide over the present stringency and avoid an encroachment upon the trust funds that now alone stand between the Treasury and bankruptcy.

For The Presidency.

The apostle of protection, Colonel McKinley, has fairly begun his campaign for the presidency. Ohio politicians could do no less than gratify his desire to be the gubernatorial nominee of his party, and this to Mr. McKinley means not simply a chance to win the governorship, but an opportunity to gain Sherman's seat in the senate with a very good show for the presidential nomination.

In Mr. McKinley the Republican party has one of the best representatives of its principles. The Republican party favors extravagance in public expenditures; Mr. McKinley has never opposed this. It favors party domination in selection of departmental officials and clerks; Mr. McKinley has been consistent in his practical opposition to genuine civil service reform. The Republican party, above all else, favors a tariff that prevents consumers from buying the best goods in the cheapest markets; Mr. McKinley has made his public reputation as a Chinese wall advocate. Mr. McKinley, therefore, is a natural leader for the party of public extravagance, of office-grabbing inclinations, of market narrowing purposes. With Mr. Blaine broken in physical health and no longer of sufficient mental strength to direct a great party, Mr. McKinley is the proper leader.

The result in Ohio next November will settle or strengthen his presidential chances. Because of that Ohio is to be made a national battle-ground. It will be a hot and protracted contest between the monopolists and the people, between the power of money and the force of principle. We believe principle and the people will win. —Patriot.

Folk-Lore and Folk-Cure.

Some of the scientists who make a specialty of folk lore have lately been making inquiries about the malady which the country people called spring fever. It is a genuine malady, though more disagreeable than serious. Yet it should be taken note of. While the scientists are inquiring about the tone of the malady, those who are suffering the lassitude, nervousness and melancholia, that are its symptoms, should run the disease out of their system by means of that more subtle scientist and folk-curest—S. S. S. This is particularly necessary, since spring fever leaves the system in such a condition that it succumbs readily to diseases that are more dangerous and less easily controlled. S .S .S. is a preventive as well as a remedy.

WHAT IS

SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE, Nauright, N. J.

Marsh is Still Missing.

HUNDREDS OF MEN SCOURING THE WOODS AND SWAMPS TO FIND HIM.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—District Attorney Graham returned from Spring Lake this morning, but would add very little to what is already known of the alleged presence of Marsh at that place, and the assault npon "Max Freeman," the mysterious Philadelphia detective.

He, however, gave an encouraging report of "Freemans" condition, and said that it was now believed that he would recover from the effects of the terrible blow given him by his assailant. While it was at first feared that if the blow did not cause death the victim would lose the use of his lower limbs, his physician now thinks he will eventually recover.

"Max Freeman" as the detective has chosen to be known, is one of the brightest and aolest of the Philadelphia newspaper men. His right name is Thomas Garside, and previous to his coming to this city and entering upon newspaper work he was, as Professor Garside, generally known as a labor agitator, and had a reputation which extended over two continents. He is the Professor Garside who took charge of the Jewish cloakmakers' strike in New York, and whose exploits at that time the New York papers devoted columns to recounting. He has lectured extensively both in Europe and this country on social and economic questions, and has been for years high up in the labor organizations of this country. A little less than a year ago he came to this city, and took a position on the local staff of the Times, where he soon won recognition as a bright and capable reporter.

That the man he was after at Spring Lake was Marsh there seems to be no doubt. Garside, during the Keystone bank run, was at work on the story, and met Marsh frequently. Since that time, through all the interesting developements, he has been at work on the case. With his knowledge of the inside workings of the Keystone bank he had but little trouble in tracing Marsh to Spring Lake, led to this conclusion by his knowledge of the intimacy between Yard and the fugitive bank president. Garside by his friends is known to be a man brave and fearless to a fault, and his rash attempt to arrest the man he believes to have been Marsh, practically unaided, causes no surprise.

Mr. Graham had as long an interview with Garside as his condition would allow, and the injured man told all he knew. The district attorney learned enough at once to send to this city for detectives, and three of Chief Wood's men are now at Spring Lake searching for the men who were at the lonely cottage at Como and from one of whom Garside received his injuries. One of these men the authorities are convinced is Marsh. Garside caught a glimpse of him as he was disappearing in the darkness, and is confident it was Marsh.

It is now thought that Marsh has taken to the swamps or woods, and hundreds of men are scouring the country in search of him.

The County Commissioner's went up to Coles Creek Tuesday afternoon to examine the new iron bridge just completed.

Ballot Reform Legislation Signed.

The Governor has signed the Constitutional Convention and the Baker ballot reform bills, thus giving final effect to all the ballot reform legislation of the recent session. Of the three bills passed the only one which takes immediate effect, that requiring a new and original assessment of the voters, was signed on the day of adjournment and the enrollment of the voters is now in progress under its provisions.

The Baker bill does not go into effect until the fall election of 1892, the elections for this fall and next February being held under the present law. The Constitutional Convention will depend entirely on the voters at the coming election, they being required to decide whether a convention shall be held or not. At the same time 177 delegates are to be elected, 27 at large and 150 by Senatorial districts.

This fact alone will make the coming election one of the most important ever held in this Commonwealth. In the choice of so important a body of men the greatest care should be exercised. In view of the many interests in favor of a Constitutional Convention it will be the part of wisdom for the people of all parties to assume that a convention will be held and make their choice of delegates accordingly. Peanut politics should be ignored in their selection, and both parties should put forward only candidates of first class qualifications and the highest character. Small politicians should not be entrusted with the business of making or murdering constitutions.—Times.

Constable's Pay Bill Vetoed

Governor Pattison has vetoed the bill to grant extra pay to constables in the following language: "The effect of this bill is to increase the cost of executing the laws of this commonwealth by allowing to constables the sum of 50 cents per month for a monthly visit to each place within their respective jurisdiction where liquors are sold or kept. This would amount to an allowance of $6 per year to the constables for every licensed place for selling liquors in the commonwealth. It would involve a cost to the public of many thousands of dollars. The duty of visiting and reporting the condition under which liquor is sold has been imposed upon the constables of the various districts of the state by the existing liquor laws of the commonwealth, and I know of no just ground for public complaint that there is any failure to perform this duty by reason of the fact that no provision is made for the payment thereof. I know in no district in which there is a vacancy in the office of constable, or where persons are found unwilling to take it, by reason of the omission of any allowance as this bill makes. The constables are under control of the various courts and are subject to removal for misconduct or neglect of duty."

A CHANCE FOR OUR BOYS.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4th, 1891.

HON. E. M. TEWKSBURY, Dear Sir:

It will interest you to know that there are at this date a few vacancies on the Pennsylvania Nautical School Ship "Saratoga" to which the son of any citizen of this Commonwealth is eligible if between 16 and 19 years of age, who can pass the requisite medical examination and is properly vouched for as to moral character, habits, etc. The only cost to students is for their clothing; all other expenses being borne by the State of Pennsylvania and City of Philadelphia jointly. The object of the Pennsylvania Nautical School is to educate young men in seamanship and navigation, and fit them for officers in the Merchant Marine of the United States. This one of the five Nautical Schools (four on the Atlantic and one on the Pacific Coast) authorized by Congress and for which the United States supplies school ships and officers.

To those who believe in the future of the American Merchant Marine it is sufficient to intimate that there are not to-day enough American seamen and officers to immediately man any increase in the existing number of American vessels. In view of the desirability of maintaining a high standard in our Marine I would ask if you would like to nominate anyone for a vacancy, and if so, I shall be pleased upon request from you to that effect, to forward the necessary forms of application, etc. The "Saratoga" will sail from Philadelpnia July 1st on her next cruise calling at Fayal, Lisbon and Madeira, and returning to Philadelphia about Oct. 1, 1891. I am yours very truly,

CHARLES LAWRENCE,
Pres.

Legislative and Congressional Apportionment Bills Vetoed.

HARRISBURG, June 23.

The Legislative and Congressional apportionment bills were vetoed this evening by Governor Pattison. The Governor says: "The apportionment of the State into Representative districts, according to the Constitution, is not a difficult matter; nor is it one in the execution of which any partisan ingenuity needs to be expressed to secure for the political majority of the people of the State their full and entire rights of representation."

Continuing the Governor states: "Every intent of the system is to protect and preserve the rights of the smaller districts, and the manifest tendency is toward single Representative districts. These explicit directions have been followed in the main in this apportionment, and where they are departed from in any degree had the General Assembly followed any consistent principle of division and allotment doubts would certainly have been felt in the Executive mind as to the propriety of disturbing the conclusions reached.

THE BILL'S INCONGRUITIES.

"But it is all too plain that in the partitioning of a number of the larger counties of the State considerations have been allowed to govern which have no place in the constitutional idea of a fair and proper apportionment. These blemishes and incongruities in the bill render it intolerable; I have been the readier to veto it on their account, because within two years another General Assembly will have an opportunity to apportion the State into Legislative districts, and to provide a consistent and uniform system of representation for this decade.

The Governor refers to the Congresssonal apportionment bill as follows: "This bill ought to be a fair division of the State, without regard to partisan advantages, into Congressional districts, based on the census of 1890, and upon the representation to which Pennsylvania is entitled under the act of the Federal Congress. The number of Representatives thus assigned to the State is thirty, and the contemplation of the act of Congress, as well as the spirit of our apportionment laws, is that the congressional districts of the State should be single, composed of contiguous territory convenient of arrangement and containing as nearly as practicable an equal number of inhabitants.

"The present bill is objectionable. It is not an apportionment based on the census of 1890. It is a re enactment of the apportionment of 1887, which was based on the census of 1880 with the modification that of the two additional members allotted to Pennsylvania one is assigned to Philadelphia and the other to Allegheny county. With this exception and the excision from the present district, consisting of the counties of Fayette, Washington and Greene, of that portion of Allegheny county now connected with them, this bill is a re-enactment of the act to organize and define the congressional districts under the census of ten years ago. The apportionment of 1887 was highly objectionable in many features and abounded in glaring violations of the spirit of a fair assignment of representatives.

A REAPPORTIONMENT POSTPONED.

"While it is true that in the arrangement of the Congressional districts the General Assembly exhibits no such disposition as appears in the judicial apportionment to wholly disregard contiguity of territory, yet a glance at the map of Pennsylvania and a most cursory examination of the manner in which its Congressional districts have been carved out are enough to satisfy any impartial mind that no serious or sincere attempt has been made to form districts of campact and convenient arrangement.

"The Executive is willing to postpone the Congressional reapportionment of the State to a Legislature which shall be elected by the people thoroughly awakened to a sense of how their representatives have failed to meet this duty."

SHAMOKIN, June 17.—A very strange romance has come to light in the town by the return of Charles Cameron, a son of United States Senator Don Cameron, who was supposed to have been murdered in a gambling den at Richmond, soon after the battle of Bull Run. In 1860 Cameron left his home in Pottsville, Schuylkill county, and went to Richmond, where he informed his wife he had secured the contract for building a church. He never returned, and Mrs. Cameron, hearing that he had been murdered, married William Madden ten years afterward. Madden was killed on the railroad and Mrs. Madden removed to this place. Saturday morning while standing at the door of her home, a stranger appeared and announced himself as Charles Cameron, the long lost husband. Mrs. Madden refused to receive him and ordered him to leave, and he did so. At present he is stopping with his son, Simon.

Medical Students Terrify Negroes.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—A reign of terror exists among the colored population of West Philadelphia, who believe that the medical college of the University of Pennsylvania have a paid gang of powerful men, whose business it is to lurk about the streets at night, with hoods and chloroform, and capture negroes for subjects to be dissected by the students. It is almost impossible to find a colored man or woman willing to pass within a block of the medical college after dark, and a coachman of one of the professors was so terrified at the idea that he became a raving maniac on the subject and died in the State Insane asylum at Norristown. The mania has been growing for some time, and has been greatly aggravated by thoughtless students who knew of it, and on this account tried to frighten hapless negroes who might fall into their clutches.

A LITTLE WOMAN.

Perhaps you never knew her. She
Was only known to those who love her
And still revere her memory—
Pure as the stars that shine above her.

By God's strange providence bereft
Of father, mother, sisters, brothers,
And homeless, friendless, joyless left,
She freely gave her life for others.

If grief she had we could not tell—
We dared not ask, we never knew it;
Her heart was like a hidden well—
Deep, sealed, and only God saw through it.

On errands sweet with mercy swift
She moved, her face of joy the token;
Her willing hands the weight would lift
From many a heart despairing, broken.

In weal and woe, in calm and storm,
Smiling she trod the path of duty;
Not beautiful in face or form,
For in her life was all the beauty.

Did any weep? She wept with them;
Did any fall? She comfort gave them;
And when the whole world would condemn
She stretched a woman's hand to save them.

And many a sweet "God bless her!" came
From the tender touch made human,
And lips all trembling, breathed her name,
And said: "God bless that little woman."

AN INCIDENT OF WAR.

BY AN ENGLISHMAN.

The war which I refer to was not one of those which we have lately had upon our hands, but that which a few years ago raged so long, so fiercely, between the Northern and Southern States of America. It was my fortune to serve on the medical staff with a portion of the Northern army during most of that terrible struggle; and it is needless to say that many personal incidents came under my notice, which will never leave my memory. Not one of them, however, made so painful an impression upon me as that which I am about to describe.

Towards noon on the day after one of the fiercest battles of the war, a young soldier was brought in from the battle field, where by some mischance he had been overlooked and abandoned, while comrades of his far less grievously wounded than he, had been sheltered and tended before nightfall. The poor fellow had lain all night and during the long scorching hours of the morning, amid heaps of dead, both men and horses, suffering from the loss of an arm, and other wounds. An army surgeon is not as a rule a man prone to undue sentiment or to feminine softness at the sight of physical suffering; I am not conscious of any weakness that makes me an exception in this particular. There was, however, in this youth's expression of countenance something which struck me irresistibly, and with the strong glance of his large bright eye, fixed my attention and awakened my eager interest. He was a slender youth, tall, yet gracefully made, with a head which, as the novelist phrases it, would bring ecstasy to the soul of a sculptor; and every feature molded to the true type of manly beauty. A single glance gave me this summary outline of my patient before I had time to ascertain the nature or extent of his injuries. A very brief examination soon told me that the life which for hours had been ebbing so painfully away, was well nigh spent; and he must have read the awful truth in my face, for he whispered to me faintly and said as I rose: "Is there, then, no hope?"

Alas! there was no hope; but I had not speech to tell him so; for something was rising into my throat and choking me, and a moisture in my eyes was blinding me; and the only reply I could give him was a shake of my head. The brave spirit which had nerved him through the fight had kept him up till now; but now, when the dismal truth had broken upon him, there passed over his pallid face a look of mingled disappointment and resignation which it was painful beyond expression to witness. I lost no time in giving him such surgical aid as his desperate condition called for and his waning strength could bear. I had hardly done so when an unexpected voice addressed him: "My own dear boy! my brave heroic boy!" The tone was of cheery encouragement, yet feebly disguising the woe of a breaking heart; for it was his mother's voice that spoke, and her lips that kissed his fevered brow. Gently she turned back his disordered and blood stained locks, dissembling with evident effort the mother's anguish lest she should add another sorrow to the pangs of his dying hour.

"My mother!" he cried with almost frantic delight. "Is it you, my mother? How came you here? Is it you, or am I dreaming?"—and as he spoke he threw his only remaining arm around her neck, and kissed her with all the rapture of a child. "Thank God!" he continued in snatches, as his failing strength allowed him—"thank God for this blessed joy, that I see your face once more, my mother. All last night, as I lay amid the dreadful sights around me, I prayed that I might look once more upon your face, my sweetest mother, once more hear your voice. I seemed to pray in vain, yet still I prayed."

"My poor, poor boy," she said; "a curse upon the hand that has brought you to this!" and her tears at length broke from her control.

To the amazement of all, there appeared to be something in this exclamation of his mother that stimulated the dying youth to a final effort of speech and motion. He half raised himself from his bed, and with that unaccountable energy which sometimes marks the closing moments of life, he said: "No, no! don't say that. Don't say accurst. You know not the words you are speaking. Oh!" he cried after a moment's pause, "how shall I tell her the horrible tale? How can I smite her down with such a blow, at such an hour?" and he fell back exhausted upon his pillow. The effort had been too much for him, and for some moments we doubted if the spirit had not fled. It was only a passing weakness, however, and before long he rallied again. Again he spoke, but with a kind of dreamy half consciousness, at one moment gazing into his mother's eyes, at another seemingly forgetful of her presence.

"Truly it was a bloody field," he said. "I had been in several hard fought fights, before, but they were all children's pastime compared with that of yesterday. No sooner had we come in sight of the enemy, than the ringing voice of the general was heard: 'At them, my boys, and do your duty!' What happened after that I know not. Know not, do I say? Oh, would it were true that I knew not! Begrimed with dust, each man was confronted with his own individual foe; and if there be fighting among fiends, then surely did our fighting resemble theirs. I was myself wounded, when a fair haired man bore down upon me from the opposing line, if line it could then be called, and I received his headlong onset with a terrific bayonet thrust, and as he fell I thought of Cain, and of that deed which has made the name of Cain a name of malediction for ever. I know not why, but I felt myself to halt in the midst of the melee, to kneel beside that fair haired man and look at him. I turned him over, and looked upon his face—his dear, dead face. Ah! mother, it was—it was my brother's face, and my own arm had slain him!"

The scene at that moment it would not be easy to describe. In an instant the weeping mother's tears were dry and her face became passionless as marble. My own emotion, which I have already acknowledged, I took no pains to conceal. Rough, hard favored soldiers standing by listened with bated breath to this more than tragic narrative, while big tear drops welled from their eyes unchecked and undisguised.

"Yes," he continued, soliloquising, "my own arm had slain him. Dear, darling brother Fred! I laid my face upon his, and it was cold—that face which in our boyhood seemed but the mirror of my own; ever near me—at home, at school, at meat, and at play—which laughed when I was glad, and wept when I was sorrowful. Oh, would we both had died in those fresh bright days of innocence. I kissed his pallid lips; I looked into his eyes, but in them was no responsive glance. He was dead. I had slain him! The very thought was a burning madness in my brain. I heeded not the carnage around me. I thought not of my own wounds. I even knew not when my arm was gone. Oh, the arm that had done such a deed deserved to perish. Forgive me, Oh! my brother! How gladly would I give my life to bring back thine again! Stay, friends; do not shut out the blessed light. Let in the light. I can not see my dear mother — Fred, sweet brother, put up your sword, and let us play with flowers once more upon this pleasant grass."

And so he passed away—to join his brother, let us hope, in a land where bloom the flowers that never fade, where strifes and wars are unknown, and where the mysteries and misunderstandings of our present state are dispelled by the light that never dies.

Reverence for the childless mother's grief, as well as the many voiced call of duty, prevented my making at the moment the inquiries which thronged my mind both as to the history of this strangely sorrow smitten family, and the means by which the poor mother had come to know of her son's condition and whereabouts. I have often since tried to trace her; but the search has always been fruitless. They certainly belonged to the better class of society; and I think it likewise certain that they were Southerners. The younger brother—which I took him to be—whose sad narrative is here given, had probably resided for some time in the North, and becoming imbued with the sentiments and opinions which charged the atmosphere around him, found himself eventually in the ranks. In a word, I look upon the whole episode as one of those awful coincidences of fate which are generally thought to take place only in the pages of romance, but which a pretty wide experience has taught me to believe are by no means infrequent among the unrecorded realities of life.

An Abused Language.

It is curious to note what vulgarisms creep into the American language, even the language spoken by well educated, not to say cultured people. Just at present the ear is harrowed by a phrase, or rather a word, much used by our belles who assist afternoon hostesses at that function called a "tea." "My dear," says one girl to another, "I'm invited to pour for Mrs. Commonwealth next Wednesday." "Oh, are you? Well, she asked me to turn, but I had another engagement." Heavens and earth, I thought, what is the meaning of "pour" and "turn?" It was some time before the verbs and their implied noun made a connection in my brain, and then the desire to stand these young women in a corner was so intense I retired to avoid a demonstration. The century has indeed grown old and lazy where the tongue finds so small a word as "tea" difficult of utterance. To pour tea is about as simple a phrase as can be spoken, and to drop the final word tea is to render it intolerably vulgar. The custom at large afternoon receptions here of having two good looking girls perform this service, generally imposed on servants in well appointed houses in London, is thoroughly American, and so, too, is the abominable fault which has grown out of it.—[Boston Herald.

Kerosene Emulsion.

There is a difference between kerosene and kerosene emulsion in their effects on plants. The emulsion is an excellent insecticide, and also harmless to animals and plants. To make the emulsion cut up half a pound of hard soap and let it boil in one gallon of water. When boiling add two gallons of kerosene, but first remove the vessel from the fire to guard against danger. Churn the mixture, and a jelly will result, which will dissolve in water without the kerosene rising to the top of the water. The emulsion as recommended will answer for 25 gallons of water.

The Iron Port of the World.

Escanaba is the county seat of Delta county, Mich. It lies at the foot of the great pine forests and overlooks Little Bay de Noquet, the head waters of Green bay. Five years since it was practically a village in the wilderness.

According to Mr. Nursey's carefully written report, capable of the fullest verification, Escanaba is the greatest iron port of the world. He tells us that during the navigation season of 1890 it shipped 3,700,000 tons of iron ore, or nearly double that of all the ore ports of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota combined. Its lumber output amounted to about 120,000,000 feet, while the freight capacity of the vessels entering and clearing from its port exceeded 8,000,000 tons. This compares with the tonnages of the greatest seaports of the world, which are: (1) London, 19,000,000; (2) Liverpool, 14,000,000; (3) New York, 11,000,000, and next comes Escanaba with 8,000,000 tons.—Iron.

The first of the new vessels of the Canadian Pacific line, built to establish communication between Vancouver and Japan, has left Liverpool for Vancouver, and she takes with her a number of passengers at an inclusive charge of £120 for an all-round-the-globe trip. The vessel is a magnificent specimen of the skill of the English shipbuilder. Her complement of passengers is full, and these glorified trippers are timed to be back in England within eighty days after their departure from Liverpool. They will go by way of the Suez canal and the Indian and Pacific oceans, and will cross Canada on the Canadian Pacific line.—London Tit-Bits

The Duty on Imported Gas.

The treasury department has approved the action of the collector of customs at Buffalo exacting duty on natural gas imported into that district in pipes under the Niagara river from the interior of Canada. Assistant Secretary Spaulding has informed the collector that no objection is perceived to the course suggested by him of requiring daily entries of estimated quantities and the liquidation at the end of the months according to the quantities shown by the returns of the meter.—Washington Star.

DOLLY DAVIS NOT DEAD.

At Least That Is What She Says—Was It a Mistake?

NEW YORK, June 22.—The World has an article saying Dolly Davis, the well known variety actress reported to have been drowned, is not dead. Under ordinary circumstances this announcement would not create the least surprise, but it was Sunday afternoon that a jury, impanneled by Coroner Sutton, of Peekskill, held an inquest over the body of the unfortunate and beautiful young girl whose corpse was found floating off a brickyard at Croton Saturday morning, and came to the verdict that the dead girl was none other than Dolly Davis.

Now comes the question. As the coroner's jury has made a mistake, and Dolly Davis is alive, who is the unknown girl? Who is the mysterious "M. E. J.?" These letters were signed to a note found in the pocket of the suicide. Why did the young girl end her life?

Dollie Davis Is Alive.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Dollie Davis for more than two weeks has been the guest of Thomas Butler, comedian, and wife, at the Old Tree House, Coney Island, and at 10 o'clock this morning she will receive her friends at the office of her adopted father, J. Charles Davis, 1145 Broadway. She will entertain her friends and those who have mourned her fordead just two hours, when she will return to Coney Island and continue reading the accounts of her tragic death.

A BIG RAILROAD WRECK.

One Man Killed and Forty Injured, Some Fatally.

CLEVELAND, June 22.—A terrible wreck occurred on the Nickel Plate railroad (the New York, Chicago and St. Louis) thirteen miles west of Cleveland yesterday afternoon. The West Side Street Railway company gave an excursion to Oak Point for the benefit of their employes. There were two trains consisting of ten cars each. The first section left on time at 2.30. The second section was delayed and did not leave Cleveland until about 3 o'clock.

When three miles west of Dover the second section jumped the track, ditching eight of the ten cars. Seven of the cars were overturned and four of them were torn into splinters. Many women and children were caught under the debris. About forty were badly hurt.

Edward Rogers was killed. He was horribly mangled, his head being crushed into a pulp, one arm partly severed and his breast crushed. Rogers was an employe of the Cleveland Burial Case company and at one time was a professional ball player on the Toronto (Ont.) team.

Requested His Dismissal.

BOSTON, June 23.—At the regular Monday meeting of Baptist ministers Rev. J. B. Stoddard addressed the conference on the influence of secret societies upon the church. In the course of his remarks he strongly denounced Masonry and declared that when a man swears allegiance to it he swears allegiance to a code antagonistic to God. Rev. Mr. Cleaveland, of Melrose, rose to a point of order at the conclusion of the address, and saying that he was a Mason declared that he could not listen to such uncalled for abuse. The chairman put the question to the meeting on sustaining the point of order and it was defeated—30 to 7. Mr. Cleaveland then arose and requesting that his name be dropped from the roll of membership left the hall.

Bound, Gagged and Dead.

DELANO, Minn., June 22.—The body of Annie Brunder, aged thirteen, was found a few rods from the railroad track between Montrose and Waverly. She lived about a quarter of a mile from Montrose, and had been to school and was returning home Thursday evening when she was assaulted. Her parents supposing she had spent the night with friends were not anxious about her until Friday evening came, when they became alarmed and at once instituted a search. When found her hands were tied behind her, her feet tied together and her apron tied tightly around her face. Suspicion points strongly toward John Mazue, a fifteen-year-old boy, of Monrose.

Sensational Shooting.

PITTSBURG, June 22.—A very sensational shooting affair occurred at McKeesport on Saturday, resulting in the death of William Meyers and the serious injury of Mrs. William Harding. Meyers, who was married, became infatuated with Mrs. Harding, and when she refused to elope with him he shot her twice in the breast. He then put a bullet into his own brain, dying almost instantly. Mrs. Harding will recover.

The People's Party in Ohio.

SPRINGFIELD, O., June 20.—The opening gun of the new People's party campaign in this state has been fired here at a big mass meeting. It will be followed by meetings in every village and hamlet from now on to the end of the campaign. The efforts of the new party will be mainly concentrated on securing a sufficient balance of power in the legislature to defeat the re-election of Senator Sherman.

Suing a Railroad for $100,000.

PITTSBURG, June 20.—The guardian of the five minor children of the late Charles Achenheil has entered suit in their behalf against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company for $100,000 damages for the death of their father. Achenheil was killed in a wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio road on June 20, 1890, while on his way from Baltimore to Pittsburg.

Footpad Quesada Sentenced.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 22.—John Quesada, alias John Glanton, a relative of some of the most prominent Spanish families in southwestern Texas and Mexico, has been sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment at hard labor for holding up a clerk in the San Antonio ice factory and robbing him of seventeen dollars.

Big Lockout Threatened.

LONDON, June 23.—All efforts to avert the pending lockout of the 25,000 Welsh tin plate workers have failed. It will require a great change in the situation of affairs during the present week to prevent the closing of the works on Monday next.

General and Mrs. Schofield in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Major General and Mrs. John M. Schofield have arrived in this city. They will make a short stay before proceeding to Monterey, Cal., where they are to make a more extended stay.

What the Soldiers Cost.

HARRISBURG, June 23.—The total amount of expenses for the maintenance and transportation of troops during the coke region riots was $35,020.92.

What Does This Mean?

BERLIN, June 23.—The Comte de Launay, Italian ambassador at Berlin since 1871, has been recalled.

RIOT NEAR ST. LOUIS.

Sleeping Italians Attacked by a Crowd of Drunken Men.

ST. LOUIS, June 23.—A race riot between laborers employed by Contractor Workley at the chain of rocks where the new water works are being constructed occurred at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, in which one Italian was dangerously stabbed, over twenty of his fellow countrymen driven from the camp and their valuables and money confiscated by the gang of American and other laborers making the attacks. The riot was primarily caused by the admittance into camp of a lot of Italian laborers and the report that Contractor Workley had gone to Chicago for more. All Saturday a feeling of revolt against the employment of Italian labor had been gaining in strength and bitterness. As soon as the laborers were paid off in the evening they congregated at a saloon just outside the city limits, where they remained gambling and drinking bad whisky until the entire party were crazy drunk.

About 1 o'clock Sunday morning the party broke up and started for their sleeping quarters. On the way over some one suggested that they "drive out the dagos." The idea took like wild fire and the drunken crowd armed with sticks, clubs and whatever else they could lay their hands on, rushed into the tents of the sleeping foreigners. The fight did not last long. The Italians were at too great a disadvantage and after a brief resistance they fled in terror, leaving behind all their belongings. They carried away Cataliz Francisco, one of their comrades, fatally wounded by a stab in the breast. The Italians then made their way to this city where they reported the matter to the police, and Francisco was taken to the city hospital where his wounds were dressed. At the camp their departure was followed by a scene of pillage. Their valises, bundles and packages were broken open and one stolen.

A rigid investigation was immediately begun by the police and the following arrests made: Edward Manley, John H. Jones, Michael Cahill, William Blair, William Brooks, Fred Leader and John Shiller. These men profess ignorance of the attack on the Italians and say they were awakened by a commotion and merely aided in driving from camp the disturbers of their slumbers. Italian Consul Dominico Ginnochio is indignant over the attack on his countrymen and will doubtless enter into a correspondence with his government on the subject. He has demanded of the chief of police protection for the Italians and also an immediate official investigation of the riot.

Says He Was Cured by Faith.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Charles H. Weeks, an expert accountant of this city, was injured by falling from a railroad train last November, since which time he has been an inmate of the County hospital here, apparently suffering from a serious nervous trouble, which physicians were unable to name or cure. On Friday a number of revivalists and "Christian Workers" began a series of meetings at Western Springs, a suburb of this city. Weeks was among the sick and crippled people who were taken to the place to be prayed for, and he says he was suddenly restored to health through faith.

Johnstown Victims to Seek Redress.

PITTSBURG, June 20.—Two weeks after the sad celebration of the second anniversary of the Johnstown deluge, in which over 2,000 lives were lost, comes the announcement that damage suits are at last to be entered against the South Fork Fishing and Hunting club which owned the artificial lake whose waters caused the great destruction of life and property. An attempt to indict them for criminal negligence was killed in the grand jury room of Cambria county.

Mayor Chapin a Candidate.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The Advertiser says: Alfred C. Chapin, mayor of Brooklyn, will be formally placed in nomination as a candidate for governor at the next Democratic state convention. His name will be presented in the convention by a Brooklyn Democrat, and the delegation from Kings county will in all probability vote as a unit for him. Nothing short of a political upheaval will change this programme.

Bishop-elect Nicholson May Accept.

MILWAUKEE, June 23.—At All Saints' cathedral yesterday Dean Williams read a letter from Bishop-elect Nicholson, of Philadelphia, in which the latter said he would be here this week, and would then give his final decision as to his acceptance of the election as bishop. The feeling here is that he will accept.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 23.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Rev. N. A. Barr, of Adamstown, this county, who is charged with sending an abusive postal card to Rev. Mr. Spreng, of Cleveland, O. The prosecution is the outgrowth of the Bowman fight in the Evangelical church.

HOLYOKE, Mass., November, 1890.

I was in pain all over, could get no rest either night or day and was not able to do any work for months, but after taking Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic only one week, I was able to sit up and attend to my dressmaking. POULTRY NOTES.

No. 20.

Hot weather breeds millions of lice.

Lousy chickens or turkeys cannot thrive.

Give the poultry that is confined some kind of a shade this hot weather. Also they should have fresh water given them at least twice a day and oftener would be better.

Try feeding wheat and oats in rotation, and note the result, it is better to feed a variety of food than to feed all of one kind.

Improve your stock by buying some pure bred fowls, or a few settings of eggs, as breeding from the same stock will degenerate your flock.

Most any sensible person who is determined to succeed with poultry, and who breeds good stock, and is willing to bestow on them proper care, who has a liking for the persuit will be sure to succeed and make a handsome profit yearly on his investment.—Southern Fancier.

To the taste is Manners' Double Extract for the blood. Its action its on the bowels excels all others of or kind, as it contains no mercury up-aloes. Once tried and it can always be relied upon. Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
